Egypt Invited To Join Western Powers in Defense Pact

Bid Follows Her Threat To Britain

Main Base of Middle East Force Would Be In Suez Canal Area

LONDON, Oct. 13 — (AP) — Egypt was invited today to join with the western powers and Turkey in setting up an international force for Middle East defense. A main base would be the Suez, now in bitter dispute between Britain and Egypt.

This was the driving diplomatic followup to Egypt's threat to outlaw the British guardian forces in the Suez Canal area and Britain's vow to fight if Egypt tries to remove British treaty-covered troops by force.

The American-British-French-Turkish defense plan inviting Egypt to join was presented to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed Salah El Din Pasha at Alexandria, near the Mediterranean end of the Suez, by the ambassadors of the four countries. Initial Egyptian reaction was chilly.

Sources here indicated that if Egypt accepts, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff; Field Marshal Sir William Slim, chief of the British Imperial general staff, and French Gen. Charles Francis Lechere, were prepared to fly to Egypt for talks. They now are in Ankara, Turkey, discussing the whole program.

Aimed At Suez

The proposed defense program is aimed specifically at the Suez and would supersede much of the 1936-56 British-Egyptian treaty of alliance. Egypt has announced she is junking that pact and that the British will have to get out.

The treaty signed in 1936 for a 20-year, renewable run also covers the joint administration of Britain and Egypt over the Sudan. This million square mile area lies south of Egypt and reaches to the mid - African headwaters of the White Nile, life-blood of Egypt. The Egyptians are declaring it annexed to the realm of King Farouk.

As part of the new deal offered to Egypt, Britain also has made fresh proposals on the future of the Sudan.

But informed sources emphasized Britain did not regard settlement of the Middle East defense problem as hinging on the Anglo-Egyptian agreement on the Sudan.

These sources gave this general outline of the two proposals:

The U. S., Britain, France and Turkey in the defense proposal have asked Egypt to become a fonder-member of a Middle East security group. Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, with vital interests in sea routes through the Middle East area would join in any defense measures.

Wallace To Be Recalled In China Probe

More Testimony On 1944 Mission Sought; Columnist To Testify

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—(AP)—The Senate internal security subcommittee's probe for any subversive influences on U. S. policies in the Far East will swing back next week to Henry A. Wallace's 1944 mission to China.

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) told reporters today the subcommittee has scheduled an open hearing for next Wednesday to take testimony from the former vice president and from Joseph Alsop, a newspaper columnist.

Both Wallace and Alsop have asked to be heard in answer to the sworn charge of ex-Communist Louis Budenz that Wallace's cabled recommendations from China were in accord with the Communist line of the time.

Wallace, denying this, said the proposals he made to the late President Roosevelt were "the opposite of pro-Communist" and sprang from a desire to help Chiang Kai-Shek, the Chinese Nationalist leader.

Alsop, who was on the staff of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault at the time, wrote McCarran that he had a part in certain events in China "which prove that Budenz has lied to your committee."

Closed Hearing First

McCarran said Alsop first will be questioned at a closed hearing Tuesday. The subcommittee met with Wallace behind closed doors earlier this week.

At a subcommittee hearing yesterday Harold E Stassen, former Republican governor of Minnesota, reiterated previous testimony that the "prevailing group" at an October, 1949, roundtable on China policy urged a 10-point program favorable to the Communists.

The State Department, in releasing the 90,000-word transcript of what was said at the closed sessions, said that Stassen was "factually incorrect"

Fifth Bank Employe Held For Embezzling

Shortage in Town's Two Banking Firms Passes Million

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Oct. 13 — (AP) — The two national banks in New Kensington are short over a million dollars today as the FBI arrested a fifth bank employe on embezzling charges that have shocked this industrial community.

The FBI seized George Rogers Shiarella, 53, yesterday. The slight, greying man worked his way up from messenger boy to assistant cashier of New Kensington's First National Bank. FBI Agent Fred Hallford said Shiarella admitted misapplication of $12,594.

Shiarella is the fourth First National employe arrested since last Jan. 11 and the fifth in the town to be accused of embezzling federal bank funds. Hallford said Shiarella also admitted making an $81,324 false entry on the bank's cash sheet.

10th Arrest in Area

The arrest brought the total to 10 the FBI has made in the western Pennsylvania-West Virginia area in little more than a year.

Other charges involve Dennis V. Layfield, of Wood County Bank, Parkersburg, W. Va., accused of embezzling $363,000; Samuel Paul Lewis, of Indiana, Pa., $48,479; Mrs. Goldie Caldwell, New Alexandria, Pa., $28,000, and Hildur Nystrom, McKeesport, Pa., $3,900.

The government is also investigating a $1,300,000 shortage at the First National Bank in Cecil, Pa.

Character-Building Youth Agencies Depend On Chest For Funds

This is one of a series of articles on Red Feather Agencies participating in the Marion County Community Chest. They are published to show the importance of Marion County residents' contributions to the Community Chest fund campaign scheduled to begin Oct. 16.

IN ALL THE WORK of the Red Feather Agencies, no activities contribute as much to the future of Marion's young boys and girls and the future of the community as our youth and character-building agencies.

These agencies which participate in the Community Chest and depend upon the Red Feather Drive for a major part or all of their operating funds are the Y.M.C.A. with its allied groups—Y-Teens, and Club Co-ed—the Marion Boy Scouts of America and the Marion Girl Scouts of America.

Boys and girls don't go to the Y.M.C.A. to have their characters formed, but that's what happens to them there. At our "Y" they find leaders wise in the ways of youth who direct them in wholesome activities which help develop good citizens and high standards of character.

Our Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts are part of an immense national program which introduces American boys and girls to the importance of working with others—at home, at school, and in their neighborhoods.

PARTICIPATION OF Marion's youth and character-building Red Feather Agencies is countywide. Of the 965 boys registered in Scouting this year, 158 Scouts and Cubs are in Claridon, Prospect, Green Camp, LaRue, New Bloomington, and Waldo, with a troop being organized in Caledonia.

Similarly, 133 girls of Marion's 711 Girl Scouts live in Prospect, Morral, Green Camp, New Bloomington and LaRue. Other troops are in the process of being formed. Many adults from the county are directly involved in this work.

The Y.M.C.A. has long served as "open house" to individuals and groups in the County. Specific activities set up at the "Y" for county participants include basketball leagues, 4-H work, agricultural extension work, soil conservation, farm institute, and many others. Actual figures show that of the 1,000 persons who enter the "Y" each day an average of between 120 and 150 are people living outside Marion city limits and engaged in county activities.

Quiz Officer Captured In Heartbreak

Prisoners Tell Of Terrific Loses To Allied Artillery

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 13—(AP)—A captured North Korean officer today told United Nations intelligence officers "the North Korean army now is practically nonexistant."

His statement came as doughboys of the 23rd Infantry Regiment scorched out the last 35 Korean Reds holed up in bunkers on the slopes of the northernmost peak of Heartbreak Ridge.

A pooled dispatch from the front said the mopping up action was one of the bitterest of the Korean war.

All across Korea fighting exploded to an extent unequalled since the Reds' offensive last May was crushed.

The North Korean officer gave principal credit to Allied artillery which pounded Red positions on Heartbreak Ridge unmercifully for weeks.

Another captured officer said his division of 4,000 men suffered 2,000 casualties in killed or wounded in the 30-day battle for Heartbreak and had been sent only 500 replacements.

Reds Die Fighting

The last of the Reds on Heartbreak, northernmost peak had holed up in suicide bunkers, determined to fight to the last.

The last three bunkers were cleared by flamethrower and grenade attack at 5:30 p.m.

Helicopters were flown to the ridge to speed up the evacuation of Allied wounded.

On the central front three Allied divisions drove a mile and a half toward Kumsong along a 22-mile front. The U. S. 24th Division and two South Korean divisions made the push.

Tanks and artillery backed the drive against the Reds main supply depot and headquarters for central and eastern Korea.

On the western front, a battalion of the U. S. Seventh Regiment—General Custer's old outfit—was shattered and cut up by waves of attacking Chinese Reds southwest of Yonchon.

A regiment rescued remnants of the battalion, the Seventh's First, but only after loss of ground some 35 miles north of Seoul.

The Eighth Army communique Saturday said an estimated battalion of Reds attacked the British First Commonwealth Division west of Yonchon. The Communists were thrown back.

In the east, North Korean Reds threw the U. N. Allies off a height on Heartbreak Ridge southwest of the main crest, No. 851. The latter was taken Friday by French and Americans of the U. S. Second Division.

Not Completely Secured

An Eighth Army briefing officer said that Heartbreak Ridge, under Allied attack for a month, still could not be considered completely secured. Supporting tanks thrusting up a valley west of the Votes To Appropriate $56,937,808,030

Congress OKs Biggest Peacetime Military Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—(AP)—This nation's biggest peacetime military appropriation—$56,937,808,030—has been approved by Congress.

Senate passage by a voice vote yesterday sent the measure on to President Truman. The House approved it last week

The amount is about one billion dollars less than Mr. Truman asked for steeling the United States against the threat of world communism. The bulk of the money is earmarked for arming, expanding and operating the armed services during the current fiscal year which began last July 1.

4 More to Come

With approval of the big bill, the present Congress also has broken the peacetime record for the amount of money appropriated and still has four major money bills to handle before adjournment.

Two bills passed by the Senate and sent to the White House yesterday raised to $71,136,000,000 total funds approved thus far to run the government in the current fiscal year.

The previous high mark outside of a war year was $61,000,000,000 in fiscal 1951 which ended last June 30. The all-time record was set in fiscal 1943 in the midst of World War Two. Appropriations that year totaled $147,000,000,000

The remaining four bills would add about $14,000,000,000 to the total already approved in the nine measures sent to President Truman.

Although this would take appropriations for fiscal 1952 up to the $85,000,000,000 mark the Treasury estimates that actual spending for the year will run between $68,000,000,000 and $73,000,000,000. This is because many military items such as airplanes on which work is started in this fiscal year will not be completed and not paid for until much later.

Back For More

There have been hints the Pentagon will be back soon after Congress meets in January with a request for a supplemental appropriation for the armed services.

The other measure approved yesterday was a $1,042,867,887 bill carrying funds for the State, Commerce and Justice Departments and the judiciary.

The Republicans made a fight on this one but it passed by almost a straight party line vote, 31 to 27.

Action on the four remaining money bills mainly is up to the Senate and its appropriations committee headed by 82-year-old Senator McKellar (D-Tenn).

Taft Columbus Day Speaker In State Capital

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13—(AP)—Sen Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) told a Columbus Day gathering last night that freedom is not acquired or kept without effort.

Often, he said, "people are careless" and pass power to others for temporary purposes, and never regain that power.

Taft spoke at a banquet sponsored by the United Italian Associations of Columbus. His speech was scheduled as non-political.

"We can't hope in this country to keep freedom unless we keep on guard," he said. "We have people in this country who do not take an interest in politics."

Taft said there were threats of socialism from concentration of

Unless Ohio Gets It, Cities Will Have Wasted Money, Group Says

State Needs Local Air Service, Aviation Board Tells CAB

The Ohio Aviation Board (OAB) said today that evidence presented in the Indiana-Ohio local air service case has fully demonstrated the need for local air service in Ohio, The Associated Press reported from Columbus.

Unless such service is authorized by the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), Ohio communities that have spent thousands of dollars on airports will feel their money has been wasted, the OAB said.

The OAB's remarks were contained in a brief filed today with the CAB in Washington. The brief answers a report of CAB Examiner R. Vernon Radcliffe recommending against local air service for Ohio at this time.

Radcliffe recommended that the CAB turn down applications of Lake Central Airlines of Indianapolis for four local service routes in Ohio; and of Youngstown Airways, Inc., for a non-stop service between Youngstown and Columbus.

He also recommended that Trans World Airlines be allowed to continue serving Zanesville and to serve either Marion or Mansfield on an east-west flight, but not both, as is now the case.

Many File Objections

Strong objections to Radcliffe's report have been made by a half dozen Ohio communities, including Marion, as well as by the Ohio Aviation Board. The CAB will hold an oral hearing in the matter Oct. 30 in Washington.

While pointing out what it said were "numerous errors" in Radcliffe's recommendations, the OAB said "a far more important question will be considered as answered by this decision."

"Ohio cities have had faith in aviation, "the board said. " They have seen the benefits received by large centers where trunk lines service is available. They have been encouraged by the federal government to build large airports with hard-surfaced runways suitable for airline service.

Delaware Co. Judge Dies

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, Oct. 13—Judge Fred A. McAllister, 72, of the Delaware County Common Pleas Court died suddenly of a heart attack about 4 p.m. Friday in Delaware where he lived at 249 North Sandusky street. Though in ill health for some time, he had been doing court work earlier in the day, Friday. Before coming to Delaware to make his home and entering a law firm here, he lived in Richwood and vicinity. He had been Common Pleas judge five years.

Born near Richwood, Oct. 17, 1878, he came to Delaware to attend Ohio Wesleyan University where he was graduated in 1902. In 1906, he was admitted to the bar and became a partner in the law firm of Humes and McAllister. In 1908, he was elected prosecuting attorney of Delaware County and served two two-year terms as prosecutor.

Later, he practiced law at Calgary, Alberta, Canada, then at Long Beach, Calif., returning to Richwood in 1919. There he headed a tile plant, and was for a time president of the Richwood Banking Co. He returned to Delaware in the mid 1930's, resuming his Humes and McAllister law association. His election to the Common Pleas bench was in 1946. Last year, he was chosen presi-

Tells of Alleged Neutrality Violation

Korean Boy, 15, Reds' Chief Witness To Allied Strafing

MUNSAN, KOREA, Oct. 13 — (AP)—Liaison officers will meet again Sunday in dusty little Panmunjom in another effort to get the stalled Korean armistice talks rolling again.

The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. (8 p.m., Saturday E.S.T.).

Negotiations were interrupted Saturday by a Red complaint that three United Nations warplanes strafed the fringe of the Kaesong neutrality zone Friday, killing a 12-year-old boy and wounding his two-year-old brother. U.N. liaison officers investigated.

The Reds and U.N Allies were nearing agreement on administrative differences holding up resumption of full-dress armistice talks when the Communists protested by telephone Friday night that three Allied planes had strafed the edge of the cease-fire neutral zone.

The Reds broke off the talks in Kaesong Aug. 23, charging that Allied planes had bombed the zone the day before in an attempt to murder the Red armistice delegation.

A 15-year-old Korean boy told

Safe In The Arms Of Jesus

A hymn that was written in 15 minutes

William Howard Doane was one of those versatile individuals who could keep several irons hot at the same time. He was an expert accountant, an inventor with 70 patents to his credit and president and general manager of a plant in Cincinnati. He played several musical instruments, sang in church choirs, published no less than 40 song books, wrote 2,300 compositions and was awarded the degree of doctor of music by Ohio's Denison University.

Deeply religious, it was natural that Doane should combine his talents with those of Hymn-Writer Fanny Crosby. The team grew to understand each other so well that when the composer sent melodies to Miss Crosby in Brooklyn the music often suggested themes for verses. And it worked the other way. Many times Miss Crosby sent verses to Doane in Cincinnati and the words suggested a melody. It was, in fact, Doane's ability to sense the sentiment of Fanny Crosby's words and to compose such appealing tunes for them, that the music itself made popular many of the blind writer's hymns. To mention but a few: "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour" . . . "Near the Cross" . . . "Saviour More Than Life to Me" . . . "I'm Thine, O Lord" . . . and "Rescue the Perishing."

One day in 1868, Doane took "the cars" for New York on a quick business trip. During the ride a melody kept running through his mind. Concluding his business, the composer hurried over to Brooklyn to leave the tune with his co-worker. He ran it off on the organ and, as he had only 40 minutes to get the cars back to Cincinnati, asked "Aunt Fanny" to mail him words for the music. But Fanny Crosby asked Doane to start writing. As fast as the composer could take down the words the blind poetess dictated and, according to her own story, Doane was on his way to the station in 15 minutes.

Settled on the train, the business man-composer studied the hastily written verses. Each word fit perfectly with the melody. Thus was born a hymn that was sung 47 years later at Fanny Crosby's funeral . . .

Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe on His gentle breast,
There by His Love o'ershaded,
Sweetly my soul shall rest.
Hark 'tis the voice of angels,
Borne in a song to me,
Over the fields of glory,
Over the Jasper sea.

Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe from corroding care,
Safe from the world's temptations,
Sin cannot harm me there.

Free from the blight of sorrow,
Free from my doubts and fears;
Only a few more trials,
Only a few more tears

Jesus, my heart's dear refuge,
Jesus has died for me;
Firm on the Rock of Ages,
Ever my trust shall be.
Here let me wait with patience,
Wait till the night is o'er;
Wait till I see the morning
Break on the golden shore.

Godliness

A Sermonette

By REV. CARL L. WOOTEN
Pastor of First Church of the Nazarene

"Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof."
—II Timothy 3:5.

GODLINESS is another word for religion, or Christianity, including the whole of genuine religion. When we speak of a "form" we refer to an outline of a sketch of anything, the external figure or appearance of it. The form of Godliness is that part of religion that can be seen.

Godliness has a form. It has a form of knowledge. It has a form of words to express it. We find in the scriptures, in creeds and confessions and articles of faith, excellent forms of words to express religious conceptions. It has forms of worship; and the man who has the form of godliness usually attends some places of worship, hears some minister of religion, reads the scriptures, and prays both in public and private. He supports the church of his choice and considers it his second home on earth. It is where he meets God and where God meets with him and his family.

Godliness takes form also in the practice of moral duties. The man who practices the form of godliness is an honest man. He does not rob, steal, or lie. He pays his honest debts, and does not take the advantage of his fellowman. He is charitable and benevolent.

GODLINESS HAS NOT only form but a power. The essence of every genuine existence is a power. The letters of a word constitute its form but the meaning of the word is its power. The outward fact of Christ's resurrection is its form; the spiritual essence or significance is its power. The words which convey the gospel make up its form; but that which is conveyed is its power.

The power of the gospel is the power of truth. Man is moved when the gospel reaches his heart. We can almost see its workings. The apostle Paul was concerned about both the form and power of the gospel. The power of the gospel was a greater concern to him. "And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power. That your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God." 1 Corinthians 2:4-5. And in Romans 1:16. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth—." Of course, this power works within the heart of one who believes the gospel. The reason so many fail to experience the transforming power of Christ in their hearts is they fail to believe the gospel of Christ. Billy Sunday sat on a curb and listened to a street service conducted by, I believe a Salvation Army Band, who not only had form, but power in their religion. The message with form and power reached the heart of Billy Sunday, and he became the nation's best known evangelist of his day. It was the truth that set Billy Sunday free. This truth will set any soul free from the bonds of sin if they will believe it.

THE POWER OF godliness is the power of love. Love is a powerful passion. Russia and the United States are racing at top speed to outdo the other in the production of atomic bombs. No loyal American objects to us having supremacy in atomic energy, this seems to be the only hope in worldly warfare. We do wonder what would happen if both nations would strive for love as desperately as they do for atomic power. Instead of our nation facing oblivion, it and the world would face a reign of peace throughout the earth.

Could there be a danger of us having more form than power? We must have some form, but it takes the power of the gospel for us to do the work Christ has given us. His command was, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." This command carries the same weight with it today. Never has the world needed the message of the gospel as it needs it today. Charlie McCarthy has form, but no power. His words are words of another. When he is alone he is helpless, and powerless. We of the church need the power of conquest, the power promised us if we would live Godly in Christ Jesus. A good life produces power, and a bad life generates weakness.

Our heavenly Father, give us that inward power that will enable us to be good and kind. Keep us humble and watchful and prayerful. Help us that the power of Christ shall enable us to be what He would have us be. Amen.

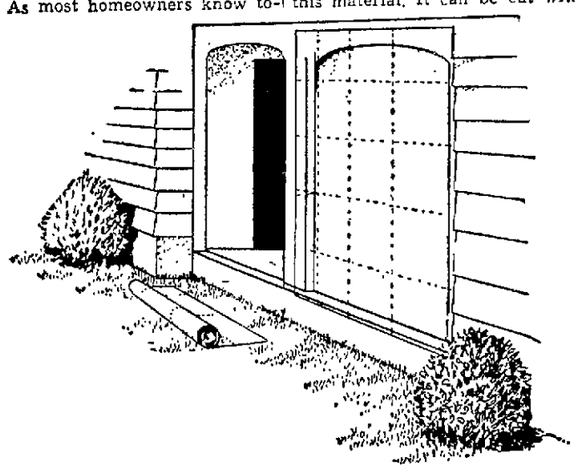
YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

By Douglas Tuomey

Easy, Quick Protection for Outdoor Roofs

One of the most interesting of the new materials which are always coming to light in the building industry, is the large sheet of wire-reenforced plastic. The development of this material fills a long wanted item for the country or suburban home, and takes the place of complicated and expensive methods of insulating and protecting exposed areas of the house.

As most homeowners know today there is a general use of breezeways, sleeping porches and open terraces with roofs but no walls. Glass panels have been used to enclose them in bad weather, but they represent a large expenditure and a lot of heavy work putting them up and taking them down. These large sheets of plastic material enable anyone to install a protective barrier against snow and rain, help to keep the house warmer against the winter winds and make useable space which previously had to be given up during the winter months.



As shown by the illustration, a breezeway or open porch can be closed in very neatly with this material. It can be cut with a pair of scissors and attached with thumb tacks or light staples It admits light freely and, in some grades, looks like very thin glass. It can be removed, marked and rolled up for use the following winter with as little effort as installing a light screen in a window frame. In cases where screened doors are left up during the winter months the screen panels can be covered with this material and present a barrier to rain and snow.

With this material available, there is no longer any necessity for a porch or any other exposed area of a house being piled with snow drifts or flooded with driving rain.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Lack of Humidity

Q: A year ago we replaced our gravity coal fired hot-air furnace with a forced air gas-fired furnace. The latter has no humidifiers and no registers for heating the basement, which is rather cool. We have noticed cracks between the hardwood floorboards and some slight warpage in furniture and woodwork. Could this be due to insufficient moisture in the air?

A: Lack of humidity could cause wood to shrink, resulting in open joints in furniture and space between floorboards. A humidifier should help remedy this condition. Your local heating supply house can supply you with a humidifier of sufficient size for the furnace. Perhaps the maker of your heating unit has humidifiers that go with the equipment you have. You will have to heat your basement with a separate heater, as it is generally impractical to run a register out of the furnace for this purpose.

Dull Mirrors

Q: We are refinishing some walnut bedroom furniture and the mirrors are not bright. Is it possible to have glass cut to replace the old mirrors? If so, will the walnut split?

A: Your local glass dealer can supply you with mirrors or glass cut to fit the frames holding the present mirrors. Properly done, there is no reason why the walnut frame should be affected.

Houses of Concrete Blocks

Q: I have seen cement block houses in magazines where inside walls were of the same blocks. Is this type of house satisfactory? Do the walls hold cold, moisture, etc.?

A: Concrete block walls of a house built in a cold climate should be furred out to creat an air space between the blocks and the inside walls. In parts of the country where the weather is warm all year around, the construction you described would be quite satisfactory.

Pine Board Exterior

Q: The front of our house has one coate of white paint and I would like it to look a natural pine color. The pine boards have been installed in a vertical direction and we would like to know what to do. Should we stain it or what?

A: To get the effect desired, the first step is to remove the paint down to the bare wood. In order to obtain the light natural color of pine, staining will not be necessary. Smooth the wood by rubbing with fine sandpaper, wipe off dust, and finish with three coats of top quality spar varnish. The first coat should be thinned as recommended on the label.

Approve Soil Conservation Practices

Conservation agreements covering 862 acres of Marion County farm land were approved Thursday night at a meeting of the Marion County Soil Conservation District.

The agreements were approved for conservation practices on the following farms: Daniel J. and Paul H. Mautz in Pleasant Township; John A. McNamara in Pleasant Township; Thomas J. Complete farm conservation plans for the farms of Dwight L. Wenig and Edgar W. Williams of Grand Township also were approved.

Calvin W. Baldinger, chairman of the board, was named to represent the Marion County Soil Conservation District on the Marion County Agricultural Mobilization Committee

Jan 3, 1952 was set as the date for the annual district meeting and supervisors' election. Three supervisors will be elected at that time. The three-year terms of Mr Baldinger, Clyde W. Hinamon and Victor H. Kreis will expire this year.

Get the Bribe-Givers Too

IT APPEARS that the latest diversion in federal housecleaning is going to be to dust off some bribery affairs in the Internal Revenue Bureau. This will be informative and interesting. The public may shudder with horror, but it loves these revelations of wrong-doing and revels in evidence that crime does not pay.

There is only one thing wrong with this kind of an auto-da-fe in public affairs. The real heretic goes on his merry way, while the poor creature whose picture and misdeeds are held up to public contempt is only the sucker who got caught. The real offender is the person who did the bribing—and not all bribe-givers, by any means, were forced into that role. With many of them it was their own original idea. And to those who were solicited by bribe-takers, there always was recourse to official authority for protection.

That is what started the dusting-off of Internal Revenue Bureau affairs. Senator John J. Williams of Delaware, a businessman, smelled smoke and began to look for fire. He has found it. But bribe-givers are just as guilty on a basis of morals as bribe-takers.

Preview of '52

THERE is one theory of national elections in the United States that says their chief importance lies in the emotion they stir up and the reaction from the emotion.

This theory holds the two-party system to be a framework within which action and reaction can occur without upsetting the structure of government. It holds that the similarity of the two political parties, a fact sometimes pointed to with alarm, is the saving grace of the party system in the United States.

This is so. It is explained, because similarity prevents radical change in government, though permitting radical change in atmosphere of government. Thus, an election becomes a kind of catharsis of feeling, like the third act of a well-written play. When voters have "thrown out the rascals," or when they have "rallied to the support of their friends in power," as the case may be, everybody feels better.

It is in line with this theory that many observers are predicting there will be a violent and cataclysmic" throwing out of rascals" in 1952, unless the Truman Administration can overcome the impression that it is riddled with corruption and tainted ethics from top to bottom. Violations of public trust constitute one of the few issues which everybody can understand.

Is All of It Necessary?

ON THE same day that a congressional conference committee clinches a $5,750,000,000 tax boost, Senator Douglas of Illinois argues that Congress could have saved $1,500,000,000 this year in useless expenditures.

The saver from Illinois says $714,000,000 is going to be piddled away in non-defense expenditures alone. The rest will be thrown down the sewer by the military. If Congress had not been firm, another $1,500,000,000 would have been wasted; that much grease was fried out of the budget. No one will miss it.

It has been demonstrated times without number that spenders can make a good case for spending every cent they can lay their hands on. That is why government spending keeps growing by leaps and bounds—from less than 10 billion to more than 70 billion a year since 1940 by the federal government and from about five to more than nine billion for state and local government in the same period.

There is one proposition which never has been tested and never will be as long as governments can collect more taxes by simply adding them to taxes already in existence—that at any given moment as much as one-fourth of all money spent by government could be saved with no objections other than those which would be raised by displaced public employes.

Eventually, Why Not Yesterday?

A WISTFUL thought is nudged along by an American Society of Planning Officials report that cities finally are beginning to make builders provide off-street parking facilities for tenants of new residential and commercial structures.

If the problem of automobile congestion had been foreseen, say in 1920, city streets now would be used exclusively for moving vehicles, never for parked vehicles. There would be less pressure to tear up and rebuild urban areas to relieve traffic congestion—always at staggering public expense. There would be fewer blighted neighborhoods. There would be less time spent—and wasted—on wondering what to do about automobile congestion, which is very largely a problem of neglect.

Every new structure which is not accompanied by sufficient space to park the vehicles it will draw to its neighborhood is a net addition to a problem already so complex it never can be solved by merely making larger appropriations from public funds.

The Truman Library

By David Lawrence

Question About Ownership of Papers Raised

WASHINGTON

NEWS about the plan for a memorial library at Grand View, Missouri, to house the letters and papers of President Truman when he leaves the White House has raised the question as to whose property those documents really are.

Inasmuch as the American people pay a regular salary to the President of the United States and the expenses of his stenographers, the assumption is that, if he writes his letters during office hours and discusses public business therein, this material has been paid for and is the property of the government itself.

LAWRENCE

The same issue has arisen before in connection with Presidential papers. There's a library at Hyde Park, New York, where the papers of the late President Roosevelt are stored and it is a question whether all the documents in it can be regarded as wholly personal or private.

It has become the habit in recent years for cabinet officers to take away their files and later make them public in books or magazine articles. The issue has been raised that an official's own diary written at home could very well be his own property, but if he dictates a memorandum to government stenographers concerning the visits of callers who come to him on official business, the material ought not to be taken from government buildings.

IT MAY WELL BE wondered what the handicaps might be to a future President if he does not find the White House files complete on public business. Certainly continuity in governmental operations can be impaired if every top official may decide for himself what's official and what's private or personal and pull out of the records whatever he pleases.

Letters about political activity, for example, and relations with a political party or memoranda on how Presidents got delegations to bring about their own renomination are, of course, personal, as is all material on campaign activities. Doubtless letters to music critics are also in the private category. But can it be said that letters between the President and members of Congress concerning public business are not the property of the people?

The late President Roosevelt would never agree to let the transcripts of his press conferences be made public as they happened but reserved those transcripts for publication in book form even while he was President—an incident of doubtful propriety to which this correspondent called attention at the time.

IN ALL THE instances where letters are placed in private libraries set up as a memorial to a President, the custom is to appoint trustees who are friendly to such a President. Hence, the access which historians may have to letters can be restricted, depending upon the amount of embarrassment to the record of the Chief Executive that might be involved.

Important material which is really the property of the government itself and not of any individual can be suppressed in this manner. One wonders whether somewhere a list of the letters taken out of the files will be made so that, if congressional committees should in the future search for evidence on some important event of history, they would know where to look for such documents—assuming that the letters they want to see will not have been destroyed on the theory that they are private property.

The moment any official takes away from government files any letters, there would seem to be a duty to justify the nature of those withdrawn and to let someone else — possibly Comptroller General Lindsay Warren, head of the general accounting office—who is responsible primarily to Congress, audit the property that is withdrawn and determine whether any of it is personal or belongs to the government and hence to the people of the United States. Every President ought to welcome that kind of a check lest the impression grow that he is seeking to conceal some of the records of his administration.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

In 1840 all the territory north of what is now Mill street was yet a dense woods; there were but few houses on State street; Prospect street was but thinly peopled; West Center street was chiefly remarkable for the old Holmes homestead, to the south of which stretched a swamp. Berry's Hill was covered with woods, to the north of which was Father Baker's peach and apple orchard, which was used in common as if it were town property.

Congress Quiz

Q—I understand some congressmen are thinking of giving themselves a raise. When was the last time they did this?

A—In 1946. Then the annual pay for senators and representatives was increased from $10,000 to $15,000. The $15,000 includes a $12,500 salary and a $2,500 taxfree expense allowance.

Inflation—1776 Brand

NEW YORK—(AP)—Letters of a merchant and his family, given to the New York Public Library by the estate of Bayard Blackwell Rodman, show the high cost of living in 1776. "A green bonnett" made for a lady in those Revolutionary days cost $2. A 16-pound side of lamb cost $3. A 23-pound hind of veal cost $5.50.

Clear the Aisles!

By TRUMAN TWILL

IN the nick of time, to put it bluntly, the American Feline Society Inc., has snuck through with a blurb on National Cat Week next month.

In the second paragraph of said blurb is the timely information that the society runs an 'adoption service." That's for the Twillery's five latest kittens—an adoption service.

Their mother can begin to start to prepare herself for the blow of being separated from her children. As soon, in fact, as the head of the Twillery can get in touch with the national headquarters of the American Feline Society Inc., 41 Union Square West, New York City, and learn what to do.

The society must understand this is not a case of shoving off a batch of unwanted kittens on a bleeding-heart organization. It is not that the kittens are unwanted but that the future looms ominously before their distressed owner. It is a future full of kittens.

The latest little strangers were spared in their early days of life when life itself hung by such a slender thread it could have been cut with no trouble at all. They were pampered through infancy and brought to the threshold of catiness. They were lugged back and forth from where they were to where they were supposed to be and fished out of places where they might have perished.

They were fed great quantities of pasteurized milk by their two-legged friends and greater quantities of ordinary milk by the best friend they ever had, their mother. Their appetite for mice and chipmunks has developed by such leaps and such bounds that in another week it will be necessary to buy mice in the open market to keep them full.

There has been no stand-offishness about these kittens at any time, dear American Feline Society Inc. The inmates of the Twillery are the best friends their mother ever had. Before these kittens there were other kittens. And before the progenitor of these recurrent wave of kittens was T. Manville, himself, the tomcat that thought and dreamed like a playboy of the western world, American division.

There looms in the near future the certainty of still more kittens. With milk at the price of meat and meat at the price of jewels a multiplicity of eats is a thought to shudder over, along with a multiplicity of taxes and bureaucrats.

There is no time to waste in learning how this adoption system works. Will the society send us the names of suckers who want five hungry kittens of assorted sexes? Or does it want us to send the kittens to New York?

"It is directly due to the society's tremendous public relations efforts that the Cat is again emerging from the shadows extending back to the Middle Ages," reports the blurb-writer, rubbing against our ankles, so to speak. Well, keep up the efforts, Tom old kid, because there is a personage at the Twillery reverting to the Middle Ages faster than five hungry kittens plus their hoyden mother can lap up warm milk.

If it's going to be a contest to see who eats—the kittens or the head provider—Middle Ages here we come with our burlap sack, our ball of string, a rock and a quick trip to the creek, kerplunk. The aisles must be cleared for future generations.

Me and My Shadow

Winning Campaign Suggestion for Taft

By Raymond Moley

THE BIGGEST roadblock on Taft's route to the White House is the conviction of many Republicans that he cannot be elected if nominated. This belief, eagerly promulgated by Democrats and northeastern Republicans alike, has had a profound effect on public sentiment. It is rooted in the largely unfounded criticism that was urged in 1940 and 1948, that "Taft has no color." Closely related to this are the sayings that "Taft has made too many enemies" and "Taft is too outspoken."

These pessimistic views were widely held in Ohio during the senator's 1950 campaign. The stunning victory on that occasion should be a rational answer to those objections, but political sentiment is not always rational. It is based on habit and emotion. And the old anti-Taft ideas, while scotched, are not killed.

MOLEY

Taft and his managers can, if they will, take measures to overcome these rooted beliefs, and I shall, for what it may be worth, suggest a method.

LONG OBSERVATION of and participation in campaigns have convinced me that traditional campaign methods are out of date. Something fresh and new is urgently needed, and Taft has the qualities to provide just that.

Therefore, if he is nominated, he should discard the old mass-meeting oratorical approach. That method always consisted of appearances in key cities in big halls, with a prepared speech in manuscript carefully tailored by a flock of experts and speech writers. These utterances no longer seriously impress hearers because the public is too sophisticated to accept them. They give no measure of the speaker, and they usually fail to answer the questions that people want answered.

Taft is not good with a manuscript, and his written speeches are solid but not moving. He is, however, magnificent in free-for-all debate and in answering questions.

HE SHOULD make his campaign a series of question-and-answer periods, using television and radio wherever he can to get his personality over.

A few years ago at the big newspaper publishel's dinner in New York, Taft, instead of giving a speech, held a glorified press conference. One editor, Nat Howard of the Cleveland News, asked questions at one microphone, and Taft completely "off the cuff" answered them at another microphone. I felt that night that he made a tremendous hit.

Since then, he has made set speeches to many of the same people, and the impression was not so good.

My suggestion is that in his major appearances in next year's campaign Taft should arrange to have three or four editors or newspapermen sit at one table and fire questions. Taft, standing at the lectern, should answer them. The questioners should be local people selected without regard to party. The questions should not be known to Taft beforehand.

Thus, Taft would tour the country taking on all comers.

NO OTHER MAN suggested for the Presidency could afford to take this test. Taft alone has the knowledge to take it.

Of course, he would say some things that some people might not like. But the overall impression would be that of a man of supreme courage, superb capacity, and unrivaled knowledge of public affairs.

Such a performance would provide for politics something fresh, new and inspiring. It would, I believe, sweep the country.

Are You Ill or Just Neurotic?

DOCTOR'S REPORT ON EMOTIONAL "HEART TROUBLES"

CHICAGO

MANY persons who believe they are suffering from heart trouble are really in perfect physical health and are merely neurotic, according to an article in Today's Health, published by the American Medical Association.

More than half the symptoms of heart trouble arise from emotional difficulties, according to the authors of the article, Dr. Lewis J. Burch and Isabella C. Miller, of New Kensington, Pa.

"The heart is a highly complex but amazingly efficient organ," the article pointed out. "It can instantly meet the most widely varying conditions and exigencies and adjust to most of the abuse we give it. Yet it is extremely sensitive. This very sensitivity of response accounts for many cases of supposed heart trouble, for the heart feels and immediately responds to the impact of emotional stimuli.

"Our hearts normally respond to the stimuli of bodily needs. Just so, a sudden emotional stimulus can increase the pulse rate. Unfortunately, the heart will also respond to neurotic emotional stimuli."

How quickly a heart neurotic can be cured depends upon the person, the authors reported. The patient must be able to face realities instead of taking refuge behind the assumption of invalidism, and must be determined to think and act as cheerfully and pleasantly as possible.

Five suggestions given by the authors on how to combat a neurotic heart condition are:

1. A thorough physical checkup by the family physician to make sure there is no organic disease.

2. An honest appraisal of personal life, including every fear, doubt, irritation and frustration. Diversion of energies to constructive activities.

3. A check of eating and food habits. When general health is improved by proper food and eating habits, mental outlook becomes more cheerful.

4. The spending of leisure time pursuing some pleasant hobby or just resting.

5. Taking proper physical care of one's self.

The Once Over

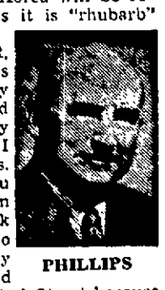
By H. I. Phillips

A Letter on Panmunjom

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA

DEAR BABE:

Well, it looks like you have got another to misspell. It is Panmunjom and it is not a new cooking oil, salad dressing or plastic substitute for sofa legs. It's the name of the place where the truce talks over here in Korea will be resumed. Sergeant Mooney says it is "rhubarb" spelled backwards.



PHILLIPS

They can't change the act, the words or the music in this world-record hassel, so they are changing the location and scenery. Panmunjom is only six miles from Kaesong and I do not see what our side gains. Six miles is nothing, and you can skid that far in Korean mud. It makes Ridgway look like the guy in the old gag who lost a dime in the subway grating at Broadway and 43rd Street and looked for it at 42nd Street because there was more light down there. Our side pulled a rock in the first place when it agreed to talk at Kaesong which was about as much of a neutral zone for us to be in as Ebbet's Field would be for the Giants. To agree now to switch to Panmunjom is like your old man refusing to meet your mother in front of Gimbel's but saying it will be okay outside Macy's.

We won't get any place in these truce hassels until the meeting place is switched a lot farther than six miles. We must be the optimists of the year if we think the Communists and the Free World are only six miles apart.

I am still on a detail with General Ridgway's truce delegation and I was telling the boys yesterday that six miles in Korea don't make the big difference it makes back home in the U. S. A. In America six miles can change everything. It can take you from a one-drugstore three-decker sandwich town to a place where they have first-run movies, a good ball club, a road company of "South Pacific" and a good sirloin. A short trip like that can be all the difference between "Quo Vadis" and "The Birth of a Nation." But not in Korea. Six miles makes no difference scenically or socially. Panmunjom is just another mud village full of "lookalikes." Everything about the joint will make the delegates feel more like getting into long arguments than Kaesong did. All the switch will do is to make it tougher for any delegate who stutters.

Letting Panmunjom into the act costs us the support of proof readers and typesetters all over the world and makes life more discouraging for kids who are trying to master modern geography lessons. They tell me a tent city will be built just outside Panmunjom. This is a great step toward peace as it is impossible to slam a door in a tent.

Well, as Shakespeare said, "What's in a name?" even if he was never in Asia. Chicago is still Chicago, New York is still easy to spell and nobody is calling Brooklyn "Broobumjums," so maybe I should not feel so bad.

All my love,

News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO—It was Monday, Oct. 13, 1941.

In the face of Germany's claim that her Russian sweep had carried within 100 miles of Moscow on the west and south, Russian dispatches from the blood-bathed front declared that one German thrust had been slowed down and that the Red army had launched counter-attacks at several points.

Members of the Harding Memorial Association and of the association's board of trustees held annual meetings at Hotel Harding. Officers of the association, all re-elected by the board of trustees, included Herbert Hoover, honorary president, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, president, French Crow, first vice president, C. B. King, second vice president, Bennett Bindley, third vice president, Ray R. King, treasurer, and H. Alfred Donithen, secretary and assistant treasurer. J. D. Williamson of Marion was elected to membership in the association by the trustees.

Winners in an essay contest sponsored by The Star in connection with the observance of National Newspaper Week, Oct. 1-8, were announced and included, Jeanne Quakenbush, 15, a sophomore at Harding High School, Wayne Burns, 14, ninth grade pupil at Vernon Heights Junior High School, Robert Luke, 17, senior at St. Mary Parochial School, and Florence Gibb, senior at Morral High School. Each received $10.

A. L. Stuckert of Bucyrus was elected president of the Ohio Association of Chiefs of Police, and William E. Marks of Marion was elected vice president at the organization's annual convention in Columbus.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Freshour of 140½ Chicago avenue.

The Junior Circle of the Marion Federation of the Child Conservation League was organized at the home of Mrs. Walter D. Moore of 899 Barks avenue. Mrs. Moore was elected president, Mrs. William Powell Jr., vice president, Mrs. Fred Warner Jr., secretary, and Mrs. Robert Sweeney, treasurer.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—It was Tuesday, Oct. 13, 1931.

Spokesmen for China and Japan presented their cases before the League of Nations council, which had been called into extraordinary session in the hope of restoring peace in Manchuria.

The services of a student of welfare problems and a representative of President Hoover's organization on unemployment relief were made available to relief groups and public officials here when Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest at Washington, D. C., arrived to be interviewed by local welfare workers. Before he had been given opportunity to become acquainted with Marion's welfare situation, Mr. Street said his survey of other Ohio cities indicated that meeting the relief situation should be a local proposition.

Mrs. Blanche Wilcox Noyes, noted aviatrix, spoke to the Marion Association of University Women in a dinner meeting at Ringer's Inn.

Delegates and visitors to the General District conference of Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs were guests at a tea at the home of Mrs. Ray King on Mt. Vernon avenue.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

ALONG with "fantastic weapons" we're producing fantastic unemployment.

So disturbed are national C.I.O. chiefs over the unrest among their jobless followers, and the weakening of their organizations, that they have been appealing personally to President Truman to help save whole sections of their industries from actual bankruptcy.

In a recent private talk with the President, who has never been more sympathetic nor closer to the C.I.O. than he is now, one C.I.O. leader outlined a major, multi-million dollar project reminiscent of now almost forgotten WPA days, to revive the clothing industry.

Victor Riesel

Mr. Truman's guest that afternoon was the soft-voiced, Vandyke-bearded Jack Potofsky, Sidney Hillman's successor, now facing collapse of the men's clothing industry. Potofsky's project called for reclothing the freezing Korean civilian population, whose Gethsemane has left them almost naked in the face of an evil oncoming winter.

Mr Potofsky, leader of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union, would have the U. S government pay for this clothing—which would be sewn in idle and almost bankrupt American shops.

Mr. Truman immediately arranged for the C.I.O chief to confer with Defense Secretary Lovett—a meeting to which Potofsky went remembering that Sidney Hillman once prevailed on Franklin Delano Roosevelt to purchase $10,000,000 worth of new clothing for needy relief clients and WPA workers. That saved the industry and the union.

AFTER TALKING with Lovett, Under-Secretary Archie Alexander and their liaison with the Quartermaster Corps, the C.I.O. leader came away with the promise that plans would be developed for Defense Department purchases to revive the clothing industry. It was also promised that a federal or United Nations Agency would be sought to make the purchases for what was left of Korea's blitzed humanity.

Understand what's happened to the men's clothing industry — and you know why, in the midst of plenty, there are now 1,600,000 jobless and why there soon will be over 2,500,000 out of work across the land.

The clothing industry is no longer a high price industry. A new suit brings just a few dollers more today than in past years. And prices will go even lower next Spring. It's just that millions of young men are no longer buying suits; Uncle Sam's giving them the pants—with coat to match. And the families of millions at home are paying more for food and other necessities, leaving little for clothes.

ALL THIS IS HITTING the C.I.O. harder than anyone in its high command will admit—or perhaps realizes. The bigger the unions the harder they're hit. Auto Union leader Walter Reuther has been speaking all over Detroit, trying to calm his men, who are provoked into angered attacks on him and the government by undercover leftists.

But the odds are against the readhead, whirling though he is. It can be revealed that despite the huge military appropriation—less than 11 percent of the Arsenal City's factory workers were in plants with war orders when I passed through a few weeks ago. And this includes all sorts of tool and metal work Actually, less than 7 percent of Reuther's Auto Union followers are on war work.

Result is that within a few weeks there wil lbe 95,000 jobless in the city which is third in manufacturing in this country — and which has one out of every 20 American factory workers.

* * *

IT WILL GET WORSE. By early next year there'll be 125,000 looking for any sort of job. And as soon as the government takes enough metal from Detroit for other war work, in other cities, and as soon as higher living costs convince more families to go in for fewer luxuries, Detroit will drop below the 4,400,000 automobiles-a-year line.

Then, the Auto City may have as many as 200,000 unemployed, or about one out of every five C.I.O. union members.

Another C.I.O. chief who has appealed to the President is Emil Rieve, Textile Union leader. Mr. Truman was told, in Rieve's characteristically outspoken style, that only a series of heavy government textile orders now would save whole sections of the industry. Rieve, too, saw Defense Secretary Lovett, who promised that the government would move fast. Now the Defense Department is asking for bids on 30,000,000 yards of cloth.

All this will help for a while But what happens when peace breaks out, as it must and should, sooner or later?

Kids Go Atomic

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

REMEMBER floating with your sweetie through "The Tunnel of Love?"

Well, the tunnel of love at Playland, a million-dollar amusement park at Rockaway Beach, is now called "the atom bomb shelter" and "to hell and back."

One section shows a typical atom bomb shelter of the future. In the second section the boat glides through the eerie caverns of hell, past weird scenes of torture and horror.

"But none of the kids under 14 are scared at all," said A. Joseph Geist, president of the park

Hal Boyle

"There is an absence of fear in children today. Nothing frightens them It shows up more in adults."

The re-naming of the popular old "Tunnel of Love" is typical of a drastic change going on in the old - fashioned amusement park. The simple thrills that excited the kids of yesterday bore the children of today. They want something more modern — a la Buck Rogers."

"We are living in an atomic age," said Geist. "And the children are responsive to it. Tney know all about atom bombs, rockets, space ships and Geiger counters. And you can't fight their interest in things like that. It's there.

"The problem for amusement park designers is to try to figure out what is in the modern kid's mind. And, believe me, that takes a lot of figuring."

HE TOLD OF ONE 4-year-old boy who rode discontentedly on a merry-go-round, then said:

"This is all right, but where is the atomic fire engine? I want to ride on it."

Geist said many small fry endure the children's rides only to please their parents, and immediately demand to go on the grown-up rides. These now bear such futuristic titles as the A-disc, the Cyclotron, the Atomic Ray Booster, the Buzz Bomb, and the H-bomb rocket, a 60-mile-an-hour whirl for father and son.

A big favorite replacing the gay oldtime Ferris wheel is the new Flying Saucer, in which the children are whirled in revolving buckets.

And what happened to the shooting gallery? It's the bazooka gun range now.

Amusement parks still have colorful and glamorous Alice in Wonderland and Mother Goose villages. But Geist said only the very young children will have anything to do with them. After a trip in the Flying Saucer, even little girls think that a ride on the miniature train is "silly."

INSTEAD SHE WANTS to climb into an atomic jet fighter so she can man the machine guns, or else take a daring spin in a motor torpedo boat.

And she calls for a flying sausage and a slug of atom juice now instead of a hotdog and a bottle of soda pop. Atom juice is a fruit drink.

One old-fashioned ride, however, still appeals to all the children—a trip through a toy wild west town in a cart pulled by two horned white goats.

The children still have a love for animals," said Geist, and sighed:

"But as for everything else—they're gone ale

Confident Living

How You Can Overcome Frustration

By Norman Vincent Peale

IN MY last column, I wrote that the two principal causes of nervous breakdowns seems to be disappointment and frustration. And, somehow, I have become increasingly conscious of people's coming to me about their frustrations. Whether it is these critical times or a lack of some quality within us, or both, it seems to be a problem more and more of us face each day.

Dr. Peale

Usually the problem takes the form of an ill-defined discontent and exasperation with the way life seemingly blocks one at every turn. For example, one young woman told me that a psychiatrist had said that she was frustrated. She had a general idea what he meant but looked it up in the dictionary to be sure.

"Frustrate," she read, "to check, disappoint, cross, block, nullify, checkmate, confound, disconcert"

"Believe me" she said, "that's me all over. Every one of those things has happened to me."

THAT'S THE WAY it goes with a great many people. And how does one overcome this all-too-common feeling of frustration? There are complicated psychological answers but they all boil down to the need for attacking the feeling with some good old rugged virtues. Muster up faith, courage, prayer and real manhood again at frustration and you can lick it to a standstill.

I have been reading recently about the life of a man who was born almost 150 years ago As a child, he was bright and gay and keen; a great future was predicted for him. His father was a leathermaker and the child often watched him at work with awl and hammer. One day, the boy decided he would imitate his father; he picked up the tools and set to work on a bit of leather. Somehow the awl darted out of his fingers, skidded on the leather and struck his left eye. Medical techniques then were very limited, an infection spread and, in a few days, this 3-year-old boy was totally blind. His parents, however, did not succumb to frustration. They did everything they could to teach the child and, when he was 10, managed to get him admitted to a famous school for the blind in Paris.

THERE HE BECAME a brilliant student and, upon completion of his course, was asked to remain as a teacher. He had a passion for books and for music. He learned about these from his own teachers and eventually was able to play the organ in a Paris church. Not satisfied with this, he kept searching for ways the blind could read and write. And then he made a great discovery. Out of a system of dots and dashes, he invented an alphabet which opened to the blind the literature of all the world.

Although he has been dead a hundred years now, blind people from all over come to Paris to pay tribute to Louis Braille at a statue of him which stands there They rub their fingers over the face of the statue, its nose, mouth and eyes. I have been told that there is a wonderful light on the faces of these handicapped people as they recognize for themselves the features of a man who would not be frustrated and overcame tremendous obstacles to give new light to those who had lived in eternal darkness.

ARE YOUR frustrations as great as those which faced this poor blind child in a world which condemned the blind to beggary or life in institutions? And are you as handicapped as he was in trying to overcome frustration?

I often think that, as he sat in church playing the organ, a light must have penetrated the darkness in which Louis Braille spent most of his life. It gave him the strength and courage to do what he did. The same light is waiting for you, in your church or synagogue, right now. You are lucky enough to be able to open your eyes to it. Find that light of faith today and you can overcome frustration.

MYRIADS OF LIGHTED TAPERS, white chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the First Presbyterian Church for the wedding of Miss Dianne Weary and Donald Almendinger Friday evening. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C D. Weary of 238 Bellefontaine avenue, and Mr. Almendinger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Almendinger of south of Marion.

Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor, officiated for the candlelight ceremony read at 7:30 o'clock.

Garlands of huckleberry extended from either side of the large bouquet of white gladioli and chrysanthemums which centered the altar, and across the railing of the choir loft above were lighted tapers. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Harry T. Williams, organist, and Miss Mary Ellen Matson was the vocalist.

Mr. Weary escorted his daughter down the aisle and gave her in marriage. Over her gown of white slipper satin she wore a pinafore of chantilly lace, the scalloped hemline of which ended several inches above the hemline of the dress. The high neck had a stand-up collar accented with a tiny string tie and ties were caught to the bracelet-length sleeves. An open crown Dutch cap of slipper satin, the front of which had a rosebud design in mother of pearl, held her fingertip veil of imported bridal illusion. She carried a small circular bouquet of shattered chrysanthemums and roses and her jewelry was the bridegroom's gift, pearl earrings set with tiny zircons.

Miss Judy Job of Indianapolis was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Nan Lee Douthett and Mrs Donald G. Hall. Their gowns were fashioned with low, round necklines, three quarter length sleeves caught with ties, and full gathered skirts accented with unpressed pleats. They wore Dutch caps matching their gowns and each carried a candle surrounded with bronze chrysanthemums. Miss Job's gown was of gold corduroy and the bridesmaids' were in bronze corduroy

Robert Buckley served as best man for Mr. Almendinger and seating the guests were Edward Weary, brother of the bride, and Henry Field Dan Weary, brother of the bride, lit the candles.

The reception was in the church parlors where the decorations were in fall shades. The table was lighted with tapers in silver candelabra, and tiny yellow chrysanthemums and huckleberry foliage surrounded the tiered bridal cake. Hostesses were Miss Kathleen Almendinger, sister of the bridegroom Miss Alla Lee Robinson, Mrs Henry Field and Miss Mary Lou Cunningham

When the couple left on a wedding trip through the East the new Mrs Almendinger was wearing a two piece knit costume in a gold shade, navy blue coat, gold velour hat and navy accessories. Upon their return they will make their home at 261 Kensington place.

The bride was graduated from Harding High School in 1949 and is a secretary with the Universal Cooler Corp. She is a member of

The next meeting will be with Mrs Bessie Hogan of 301 West Columbia street.

Alexanders Ievins, graduate of the Art Academy of Latvia, was a guest speaker when members of the Marion Art Club met Thursday evening with Mrs James R Smith of Franklin street Mr Ievins whose pictures have been exhibited, had as his topic, "Why a Picture Lives."

For real appreciation of art one should be taught that a good picture is not a commercial creation, he said. "You may have the best book in your hands but if you do not know how to read it, the book has no value to you; you may have a wonderful picture but if you are not able to understand it, it will likewise have no value for you," he stated. At the same time, he added, it will have a value for the person who can understand the cultured value of it

Describing the painters of olden times as being very careful with each detail because of their feeling of responsibility for their work, he stated the honesty, efforts and knowledge of the old painters should be appreciated. It is because of this that their paintings have hung and been enjoyed for centuries. He told of the ingredients used by those who painted centuries ago, and also explained the methods used in transferring a picture from one canvas to another "The Moon on the Dnieper" by Kuindzi was given as an example of appreciation by the owner and also by those interested in art who drove miles to view it when it was exhibited.

The speaker was presented by Mrs Claire W. Smith, program chairman. Mrs. Arthur F. Potter was welcomed as a new member. A resolution on the death of Miss Ann Mereness, a charter member and past president of the club was read by Mrs. James R. Smith.

Mrs. Robert Cook was complimented with a personal shower Thursday evening, Oct. 4, when Miss Patricia Ann Murphy and Mrs. A. J. Bishop entertained at the Murphy home in Morral. Decorations were carried out in pink and blue and the honored guest found her gifts on a table centered with a doll in a cradle. The evening was spent socially with awards in games going to Mrs K, O. Thome and Mrs. K. O. Thome Jr.

Musical Notes

by Gene Shellhorn

There's a small boy in most every block who spurns practicing his music for the more vigorous pursuit of scalping his fellow Indians or roping his fellow cowboys. Yet . . . that same youngster can give you a rare rendition of the latest Western ballad via a comb and piece of tissue paper. He can do it and really make you feel he's enjoying it.

Why then doesn't he take the same pleasure in practicing his music lesson . . . for which Mom and Pop are spending hard earned dollars? Maybe the answer lies in the fact that he should occasionally be allowed to play the kind of music he likes . . . along with his Bach and his Czerny and his scales.

Even though his tastes are a little trite . . . it's well to let him exercise them. When he asks to be allowed to learn a certain piece of music not on the study agenda . . . get it for him. It's a sure way to help him over the hump of disinterest.

Your child may be losing interest in muic because your piano is in need of repairs and tuning We can fix that in a jiffy with prompt, efficient repairs and tuning. Call us Our prices are reasonable at SHELLHORN'S — Musically yours —at 184 S. Main. Phone: 2-2713.

It's Elementary but Sound

Early in school we learn Poor Richard's saw that "a penny saved is a penny earned." Easy to learn and easy to follow when we get into the sound habit of depositing part of our pay check on pay day. Doubly rewarding, too, because of the interest our money earns and because of the financial security we can look forward to in times of stress. Start here today.

Seek Street Improvement In Marion

Green Camp School Wants Road Which Buses May Use

A committee from the Green Camp school board met with Marion Township trustees Monday seeking improvement of Merkle avenue extension in Belmont addition at the southwest edge of Marion. The trustees agreed to repair a section of the road and provide improved road space at Lindberg and Merkle to serve as a turntable for the Green Camp school bus. Nine pupils from the section attend Green Camp school. The work is now under way.

The same committee met Thursday with Mayor Harold F. Robinson, Safety-Service Director Ralph Forrest and City Engineer Tom Cathers to have about 500 feet of Merkle avenue west of Chatfield road repaired to assure safe driving of a school bus over the street. Guard rails are to be put up on both sides of a large drainage tile. City officials promised the work would get under way in a few days.

Follows Board Meeting

The action of the committee followed the October meeting of the board at which residents of the area protested the fact the school bus would not enter the area to pick up or discharge pupils due to the condition of the streets. The pupils have been loading at Merkle and Chatfield road. At the request of the group, 13 pupils who started attending Marion city schools for the 1951-52 school year were permitted to continue. Nine pupils from the area attend the Green Camp school at present.

The area, most of which is in Marion Township was allocated to the Green Camp school district following closing of the Campbell one-room school a few years ago.

Ask Other Improvements

Residents of the area are now circulating a petition for improvement of other streets, and if approved and the streets designated are improved the school bus will be able to pass by or come within one block of any home in the subdivision.

Word was received from John Schooley of the firm of Sims, Cornelius and Schooley, Columbus architects, who have been engaged in connection with the proposed new grade school building at Green Camp that members of the firm would attend the Nov. 2 public meeting at the township hall to acquaint all in community with details of the new building. A $295,000 bond issue for the addition will be up for approval in the November election.

Eugene Emel Pine, 32, of 567 Thompson street was arrested on West Center street at 11:03 last night on a charge of drunken driving. At a hearing this morning in Municipal Court he pleaded innocent. He was released under a $125 bond and a hearing was set for Oct. 19.

pending nomination of ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup to be a U. S. delegate to the United Nations, is the State Department's past attitude toward the recognition of Red China.

As he had in other recent testimony, Stassen challenged Jessup's sworn testimony before a foreign relations subcommittee tha the United States never has considered or contemplated the recognition of Communist China.

The State Department said a majority of the 25 non-government persons who participated in the roundtable were inclined toward eventual U. S. recognition of the Red regime but the department declared it had never pursued that policy.

It also denied there had been any prevailing group or 10-point program at the conference.

Witness

U.N. investigators Saturday that bullets from strafing Allied warplanes struck his two younger brothers while they were fishing on Friday.

AP Correspondent Robert B. Tuckman, who accompanied the U.N. liaison officers in their investigation of the Red complaint, said "correspondents at Panmunjom generally felt the Communists had presented enough tangible evidence to back up their case —although there still were enough unknown factors to make a clear-cut opinion impossible."

A U.N. spokesman said the evidence was being studied and evaluated. The Allied findings, probably will be announced by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo.

Allied officers said the Reds had not lodged a formal protest but went ahead with their preparations for the resumption of negotiations.

The investigation Saturday was dramatized by the appearance of the dead boy's father. The bearded elderly farmer hurled bitter remarks at Allied officers and interpreters. U.N. officers said he had been coached.

Story of Strafing

This is the story of the alleged strafing:

The 15-year-old boy was fishing in a shallow stream about half a mile north of Panmunjom on the main highway to Kaesong late Friday afternoon. His 12-year-old brother, holding their two-year-old brother in his arms, was watching.

The oldest boy said he saw three planes and dived under a bridge, but that his two brothers were hit. The youngest was shot in the left arm.

Investigators also were told that three North Korean soldiers walking along the road saw the planes and jumped for cover. Presumably they identified the planes for the Red high command.

While the investigators were at the bridge, the dead boy's mother arrived, carrying the injured two-year-old in her arms. The youngster's left arm was bandaged. In his right hand he held a turnip and gnawed on it from time to time.

As the U.N. team got ready to leave, the boy's father hurled a harangue at Lt. Richard Underwood, one of the Allied interpreters.

Middle East

would work out a detailed organization for a Middle East command.

The five-nation group would decide on the bases and facilities needed and the size and nature of forces used. Britain's contribution to the international force would be decided on by the five founder nations.

Britain would hand over to Egypt its present bases along the Suez Canal if those bases were put at the disposal of an international force. The Suez Canal Area is regarded as the most logical place for headquarters.

After an international force is agreed upon, Britain would withdraw any of its forces not incorporated into the new group.

As the new Middle East command structure and international force came into being, Britain would give up any rights now held under the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty.

Britain's new proposal on the Sudan were reported based on three principles:

1—There should be no chance on the Sudan's status without consultation with the Sudanese people.

2—The Sudanese should have freedom of choice on their future status.

3—Provision should be made to accelerate the Sudan's independence.

Decision Stands

Britain's decision to meet force with force if the Egyptians try to heave the British troops out of the Suez still stood.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison says the British won't attack "but if somebody else does start, then our people will defend themselves and the government will support them in doing so."

The scrappy cockney Socialist made the pledge at an election campaign rally at suburban Staines last night. The warning brought cheers from the crowd that heard it.

The firm stand Morrison took may benefit the Laborites in their campaign to keep the reins of government in the Oct. 25 elections. Winston Churchill's Conservatives have been belaboring them over the decline of British possessions during the postwar Socialist regime. The Tories have laid special emphasis on the growing troubles with Egypt and the retreat from the British oil holdings in Iran.

Police Find Tacks Strewn on Street

Roofing tacks were scattered on East Mark street between Ballentine avenue and Patterson street some time around noon yesterday, police reported today.

No reports of flat tires were received.

Officers who investigated picked up several handsfull of tacks.

"I judge this steer the grand champion."

That's the statement some 35 boys and girls will be hoping to hear Oct. 19 at the fourth annual Marion Junior Steer Show and Sale.

The youngsters, members of 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America chapters in the Marion area, will exhibit their prize animals before Judge H. H. Warner, extension service beef specialist from Ohio State University. He will judge the showmanship contest also.

THE SHOW AND SALE which follows will be held at the Marion yards of the Producers Livestock Cooperative Association on West Center street.

4-H and F.F.A. members will lead 18 Angus, 12 Hereford and five Shorthorn steers into the show ring. These rural young people have spent many hours training and grooming their animals so they can show them to their best advantage before the judge as he places the steers in each breed class.

The first and second place steers of each breed will then compete for the honor of being selected grand and reserve champion of the show.

THE BOY OR GIRL who exhibits the grand champion steer will be awarded the Kroger Baking Co. trophy. The grand champion will be the first steer sold in the sale which will be held at 7:30 p.m.

In the showmanship contest the judge considers only the ability of the 4-H or F.F.A. member to show his or her animal and how well it is groomed. The winner of this contest will receive a special award given by the Carroll Jewelry Store.

Fire Prevention Week Goes Out With a "Blaze"

A fire at the Marion Power Shovel Co. this morning and three other fires yesterday and today supplied a discouraging ending to Marion's observance of National Fire Prevention Week.

None of the four fires resulted in property damage.

Workmen at the Power Shovel Co. ignited a rag with an acetylene torch which they were using to cut off pipes under the floor of Building 18, a storage building. They noticed the unusually large amount of smoke and turned in an alarm. The call was answered by engine companies from the Central and West Center street stations.

Firemen from the Central station were called out earlier, at 8:34 a.m., when a kerosene stove exploded in a house trailer belonging to Sellards Lumpkin on South Prospect street between Osgood and Smith streets. The fire was confined to the stove.

A gas range exploded in a kitchen at 748 Creston avenue, filling the house with gas, at 7:52 last night. No fire resulted from the explosion. Firemen from the Central and West Mark street stations answered the call.

A grass fire yesterday at 12:30 p.m. in a used car lot on Owens street, west of Oak street, was put out by firemen from the East Mark street station yesterday at 12:30 p.m. The fire started when flames from burning rubbish spread into the grass.

Bank

It was discovered about a year ago after bank cashier John F. Wagner committed suicide in front of the bank's vault.

Halliford said the total shortage throughout the area will pass $3,000,000.

Residents of the industrial town of 25,000 received the fifth embezzlement report calmly, but many wondered what one person put into words:

"Will there be another? And if so who?"

The series of defalcations started coming to light last January when the FBI arrested 52-year-old Guido Vernucci, an Italian immigrant, who served in the bank's foreign department. He is free on bond charged with taking $3,799.

Next William D. Smeltzer, an assistant cashier, was accused Sept. 13 of embezzling $550,000. Then while checking Smeltzer's shortage the G-Men Oct. 2 arrested Otto R. Grotefend and said he took $16,000.

The fifth bank shortage showed up at the New Kensington Parnassus National Bank. The FBI arrested Ludwig R. Schlekat on Aug. 16 charging him with stealing $600,000.

Underground Smuggling Route Found

Russian Slave Labor Furs Uncovered in U. S.

BY VICTOR RIESEL

(Special to The Star)

NEW YORK, Oct. 13— The underground smuggling route used by Soviet Russia to pour slave labor furs into the U. S. was uncovered this week when 40 tons of camouflaged skins, valued at several millions, brought illegally into this country, were discovered in a lower West Side warehouse.

The contraband shipment, contained in at least 150 bales, came to light when Pat Connolly, vice president of the International Longshoremen's Association, and Patrick Riley of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, paid a surprise visit to the Apex Trucking Corp. warehouse at 38 Bethune street, near Washington Market, New York City.

Victor Riesel

Ripping open several of the bales, the union leaders discovered they contained black caracul furs—banned for entry into the U. S.—and that the inner wrapping, over which camouflage canvas had been placed, was imprinted with Russian script. A violation of customs regulations was immediately evident in that the outer coverings failed to indicate the country of origin.

Sent From Leningrad

Investigation by the union leaders, who with Joseph P. Ryan, president of the I.L.A., have been cooperating with this columnist in a campaign to keep Russian slave labor products out of this country, disclosed that the furs left Leningrad early in September. They were detoured to Stockholm, where they were remarked and rebound in canvas and addressed to a free trade zone.

A Moore-McCormick freighter carried them to where they were unloaded, on Pier 82, in Philadelphia, on Sept. 27, while Ryan and his lieutenants were negotiating here with stevedoring companies over a new contract.

On their return to Philadelphia, the union leaders were apprised by the longshoremen of their suspicions that the cargo was contrabrand. A probe was started.

It was found that Apex trucks had moved the bales out of Philadelphia to New York and they were resting in the Bethune street warehouse, waiting delivery to the consignees.

Agreement Act Violated

According to Ryan, the bales of furs, which were shipped here in direct violation of the Trades Agreement Extension Act of 1951, aimed at the importation of products of the USSR and Communist China, are only a small part of the tremendous shipments of materials which the Communist government is attempting to slip into this country.

This huge smuggling activity is actuated, it was stated by Ryan, by the Reds' acute need of millions of dollars to fill the vast monetary deficits caused by the cost of the Korean war and the Russian development of the atom bomb.

Similar shipments, according to Ryan, have been brought into the U. S. through Montreal and other Canadian cities. Efforts will now be made by the I.L.A. to enlist the cooperation of all A.F.L. unions concerned in the handling of such shipment to uncover further violations and to plug the smuggling loopholes.

ridge ran into Red bazookas and anti-tank guns. The tanks had to turn back.

In the air, Allied jets shot down one Red jet and damaged six others Friday at a cost of one damaged U. S. Sabre. Two sky fights involved a total of 164 jets.

In the new central drive toward Kumsong, the advancing U. S. 24th, South Korean Second and Sixth Divisions met only moderate Chinese Red resistance at the start.

The swift and crushing Red blow against the Seventh Regiment's First Battalion fell Friday southwest of Yonchon. The defeat served to halt the U. S. First Cavalry Division's push of that highway town.

Waves of Chinese fell upon the understrength battalion before dawn. Units of the rescuing Eighth Cavalry Regiment arrived on the scene shortly before 10 a.m. By early afternoon, the battalion's surviving remnants and the rescue units had made an organized withdrawal.

In the same area, the British Commonwealth Division beat off heavy Red counterattacks.

Air Service

"The federal government has contributed enormous sums in helping with the construction of such airports," the board continued. "Ohio cities recognize the benefits they will receive if local service is made available to them. Their feeling of need is so strong that several cities already have spent thousands of dollars in completing their airports in anticipation of receiving service.

Some Await Action

"Other Ohio cities have their airport programs in various stages of construction. Still others await the action of this board (CAB) before proceeding to raise airport funds.

"The feeling in Ohio is that we are at the crossroads," the board asserted. "Either our traffic needs should be relieved or Ohio cities will regard the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars as lost, and the community leaders who worked so sincerely in the past in the raising of these airport funds will stand condemned.

"The Civil Aeronautics Board's decision," the OAB declared, "will either encourage the Ohio Aviation Board to carry out the mandates of the Ohio laws in promoting municipal interest in air transportation or force it to admit to Ohio communities that a gross mistake has been made; that without an opportunity having been given to prove the feasibility of local service in Ohio, its medium sized cities will have no need for their airports and no need for their air age plans; that money has been wasted and that hereafter air transportation and carrier airport development are exclusively metropolitan functions.

"The people of Ohio sincerely hope," the board concluded, "that the Civil Aeronautics Board will permit local service carriers to operate in Ohio, thereby solving at least in part a very serious transportation deficiency."

The OAB said the three-year experiment of having a trunk airline try to provide local service was a failure and that today there is a greater need for local air service in Ohio than there was in 1947.

In recommending that local service carriers be granted a chance to servie Ohio communities, the OAB said there are three requirements for local service which a trunk line carrier cannot meet. It said these are: a primary interest in local air service; frequent and convenient service, with flights to and from local trade centers in the morning and return flights in the later afternoon.

Church Built 100 Years Ago

Chesterville Methodists Observe Centennial

(Special to The Star)

MT GILEAD, Oct. 13—The Centennial observance of the Chesterville Methodist Church will be held Sunday, according to the pastor, Rev. Harry Lambert

The Centennial marks the anniversary of the building of the present church.

While the church building is 100 years old, the first Methodist to come to Chester Township arrived in 1833. The first Methodist sermon was delivered by William Creste in 1834 in the Methodist Episcopal frame building, erected just east of the present site at a cost of $1,200.

The ground was purchased for $150 and Talmage Brothers were the contractors. Methodists of the community worshiped in the frame building until the present structure was erected in 1851.

The earliest records in possession of the church are dates July 11, 1836 At that time Rev. Daniel M Conaut was circuit preacher and E B Kinsell, John Shurt, John Fogle, John Goff, John Talmage, John Smiley, and A C. Jackson were trustees

The present brick building, 70 by 50 feet, was erected at a cost of several thousand dollars. Rev Mansfield French was pastor at that time

Around 1922 an electrical storm damaged the interior of the building Previous to this there were two doors leading into the auditorium, one at the head of each flight of stairs.

When the repairs were completed the two doors had been eliminated and one pair of double doors took their place. The stairway to the balcony was taken out and the balcony closed This balcony seated approximately 200.

Sanctuary of the church is located on the second floor with two curved stairways at the front of the church leading up Sunday school rooms are located on the ground level.

The Bible school was formally organized under the pastorate of Rev. W D Akers from 1911 to 1915. Roland Kunze was the superintendent. Roland Kunze is now an ordained minister serving a church in Trinway, O

Among pastors who achieved some degree of fame are Rev McConnell, who became identified with the temperance movement in the United States and was later a Bishop of the Methodist church.

The church now has an active membership of more than 200, according to Rev. Lambert.

The Rev. Clyde N. Rogers, director of the Town and Country Department of the Ohio Council of Churches, will give the morning address at 11 a m

A basket dinner will be held at noon After dinner Rev. John D Green of Lorain will give a message and recall memories of the days when he served on the Chesterville circuit Other churches in the charge are Harmony and Salem

Rev Lambert, the present pastor, came to the church in July of this year, succeeding Rev. Fern Lewis.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

"Texas Carnival" Billed at Palace

"Texas Carnival," a laugh-and-song jammed technicolor musical starring Esther Williams, Red Skelton and Howard Keel, opened today at the Palace Theater and will play through Wednesday.

The story is concerned with a pair of carnival performers, played by Red Skelton and Esther Williams, who, after being forced to leave the carnival are mistaken for millionaries and are installed in an expensive suite in a big hotel, owned by Dan Sabinas and his sister, Marilla.

In the meantime, Marilla orders the handsome foreman of the Sabinas ranch, Slim Shelby, played by Howard Keel, to keep an eye on the two imposters. In the process Keel falls in love with Esther and Red becomes desirable to Ann Miller, daughter of the local sheriff and an oil millionairess. But Red gets in trouble when he becomes involved in a poker game and soon he and Esther are exposed.

Showing Thursday through Saturday will be a double feature "You Never Can Tell" starring Dick Powell and Peggy Dow and featuring Joyce Holden and Charles Drake, and "Bannerline."

The former is the amusing story of a police dog who is left a $6,000,000 estate by an eccentric millionaire, the dog is later poisoned, goes to animal heaven and returns to earth as Dick Powell, Private Eye, in an attempt to track down his murderer.

RED SKELTON AND ESTHER WILLIAMS, as a pair of carnival performers posing as millionaires, go in for a bit of eavesdropping in the above scene from the technicolor musical, "Texas Carnival," which opened today at the Palace Theater and will play through Wednesday.

The Mongolian horde, though, meets its match in an army of knights led by Sir Guy of Devon who has been sent from England to warn Genghis Khan to stay out of Europe. In a great battle, Sir Guy saves the city of Samarkand and its beautiful ruler, Princess Shalimar

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

There was a snap in Dicky's words, a nuance in his voice which told all of us used to his little ways that he had strong reasons for wishing Junior, Roderick and Lillian and Harry Underwood to sit in on the conference over the coming New Haven party which my father was insisting on our giving. When I saw Mildred Grey, Bill's fiancee, and Bess Conway, my father's alluring FBI operative, send covert, appraising glances at my husband, I knew that they, though strangers to him, also were recognizing his urgency.

In another half minute our chairs were shifted to positions facing him, and he was speaking with stress in his voice.

"I have worked with my father-in-law for a long time," he began, his eyes roving over the faces of the younger members of his audience, "and I never have seen him so concerned—if he were any other man, I should say worried—as he is over this problem of bringing to justice this arch traitor, whose son you know as the 'college heel.'

"I am afraid," he went on, "that, for the first time in his long service, he is fearful of possible failure because of the entrenched high position in the government which the traitor occupies, and the opportunities he has for making that position wellnigh impregnable.

"His scheme of deliberately laying traps for innocent employes of his bureau, making it appear that their activities are traitorous, unmasking them himself, and then driving them to suicide, or, failing that, causing them to be murdered in circumstances which appear to indicate suicide, is the most fiendish—and the most succesful—that I ever have known. He has built a reputation upon it of high patriotism and brilliant work in unmasking traitors which it will be extremely difficult to shatter.

"The first break has come to the Chief, as you all know, through evidence confided to Mrs. Bickett by a dying friend, widow of one of the traitor's employes, an apparent suicide, who really was murdered. The traitor does not suspect that the man was married, or that he and his wife had a child, the baby Peter, now secretly in sanctuary with Mrs Bickett in the owner's suite of this hotel. If the traitor ever gets a hint of the existence of Young Peter, he will suspect that Mrs. Bickett has dangerous knowledge, and will go to any length to have both her and the baby eliminated, something which I am sure he cannot accomplish because of the extreme precautions for their safety which the Chief has put into effect."

His measured voice stopped for a second, and I saw Mildred Grey shiver at the picture he had limned, while the faces of the others were grim. Then Dicky changed his tempo, and his words were hurried, but no less emphatic.

"Each one of you must remember that the Chief is counting heavily upon the effect of the party he is expecting us to throw as soon as we learn the time and place of the next dinner which the 'college heel', the most lavish entertainer the university has known in many years, will give. He cannot appear at this function himself, but he is planning every detail, and believes that it will be the entering wedge he can insert into the defenses of the traitor.

"I am afraid you may find all this repetitious," Dicky finished. "Most of it you know, but I know the Chief wishes you to realize the importance of the roles you will play upon that night. And now, I am yielding the chair to my wife, who just has been briefed by her father upon the details of the affair we are planning. Madge, take it from here, please."

Safety In Second Period Is Margin

By A. L. McLAIN
Marion Star Sports Editor

The lowly linemen, football's forgotten men, were the ones they were cheering after Harding battled to an 8-6 edge over Lima South before 3,500 fans at the stadium last night.

The Prexies' margin of victory was a safety in the second quarter that came on a bad pass from center by the visitors. The Tigers were in punt formation on their own 13 when the ball sailed high over the intended kicker's head and out of the end zone for the automatic two points.

Smashing line play on defense held the visitors to less than 50 yards net gain on rushing. Lima rolled for 96 via the aerial route.

Jim Arnold, Ken Stanley, George Kasoties, Tats Taylor, Tom McClain, Tony D'Eramo, Bob Hamor, Dick Hendel and Tom Turner all made the defensive unit a tough one to crack.

TD Romp

Harding's six points came in the opening period. The Prexy forward wall blocked a kick on the Lima 13. After a 15-yard penalty set them back from the four to the 19, Jimmy Russell went around his own left end for 19 yards and a TD on a play that completely caught the opponents flat-footed. The try for extra point was wide.

Lima took over on the Prexy 27 after an exchange of punts in the second period. A pass from Henderson to Sanderson carried to the one where the Tigers needed two tries at the line to punch over.

The second half saw the officials play "drop the handkerchief" as numerous penalties were called. The visitors were penalized 105 yards to 85 for Harding.

The Prexies drove to the Lima five as the gun sounded.

Coach Pete Howison praised the defensive line and linebackers as "playing their finest game of the season." He singled out the ends as being particularly outstanding.

Howison will take his charges to Findlay next Friday night, seeking revenge for the decisive defeat the Trojans handed his team last season. Findlay's best effort so far was a 25-21 loss to powerful Fremont Ross.

The Presidents took a beating physically. Most of the boys were busy nursing bruised and bloody mouths in the locker room. Officials tossed one Tiger player out of the game when the visitors' "spirited" play became too noticeable late in the game.

St. Mary's Fighting Irish will be seeking their third win of the season tonight when they meet Columbus St. Mary at Columbus North High School.

LaRue Wins Over Sparta

LaRue outlasted Sparta 44-36 in a free-scoring game that for the first half threatened to spoil the Indians' homecoming game at LaRue last night.

Playing a wide-open offensive game, the aggressive Spartans cashed in on an Indian rash of fumblitis to dominate the first half.

Trailing 18-14 as the third period opened, the Indians steadied and went ahead 30-24, trading TDs with the visitors in the final period to keep a one touchdown margin at the game's end.

A homecoming parade before the game, presentation of the queen and her court and a dance following the game attracted more than 1,000 to the Double-M league six-man contest.

Fremont Comes From Behind

FREMONT, Oct. 13 — Fremont Ross spotted Sandusky 14 quick points, then struck from behind in the second half to grind out a hard fought 19-14 victory over the previously undefeated Blue Streaks.

The victory was achieved despite the fact two second half long runs by John (Big Thunder) Lewis were called back on clipping penalties. One of the nullified runs was for 54 yards, the other for 37.

Quick TD

Sandusky took the opening kickoff and marched to a touchdown in 13 plays, with the final five yards being covered on a pass from Jude Theibert to Chuck Acierto. With 3:25 left in the period, Sandusky scored again after an intercepted pass. A 23-yard drive ended with Theibert covering 14 yards on a cutback. Acierto made both extra points.

Ross struck back for a touchdown in the second quarter on a 29-yard pass, Lewis to end Jerry Porczak.

It was all Ross in the second half. The aroused Giants made it 14-13 when Jerome (Little Thunder) Surratt broke lose and scampered 31 yards.

Score by quarters:

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Artificial Kidney Device That Helps Save Lives

The kidneys are essential to life, their function being the removal of waste products from the body. When they become incapacitated for even a short period, waste products rapidly pile up in the body and, if the condition is not speedily relieved, it results first in toxemia and then in death.

It is for this reason that the so-called artificial kidney has been hailed as a life-saving device.

In many instances, the kidney becomes temporarily unable to function. While doctors know that, given time, the kidneys can be restored, nevertheless they have been helpless because they had no means of tiding the patient over the short period of kidney failure. Today, such patients may be tided through an emergency by the use of the artificial kidney to reduce the waste products in the blood.

There are many conditions in which the apparatus is effective. Often, with the occurrence of stones in both kidneys, the kidneys are not able to function properly. Until the blockage of the kidney by stones can be alleviated, the use of an artificial kidney will save a life in many instances.

Temporary kidney incapacity, due to chemical poisons, blood transfusions, toxicity due to sulfonamide drugs, pregnancy toxemia, severe burns, crush injuries, or surgical injuries to the kidney and other parts of the urinary tract, may be properly aided by the use of the artificial kidney.

An apparatus that is compact and very efficient has been devised. This machine uses cellophane sheets to do the work of the kidney.

A tube is connected in a vein in the body, and the blood is allowed to run through the machine so that the waste products may be removed by the cellophane sheets. The blood is then allowed to flow back into the body. There is little discomfort to the patient.

The blood has to be kept from clotting outside the body. This is done by the administration of the substance known as heparin.

It is believed that the lives of those with temporary kidney failure can be saved by the use of this new apparatus.

Questions and Answers

E.F.: What is shingles and can it be cured?

Answer: Shingles is an inflammation of the skin in which there are groups of blisters distributed along the course of one or more of the nerves in the skin The cause in the greatest number of cases is probably an infection.

The condition occurs most frequently during cold, damp weather in people whose resistance has been lowered by overwork or disease. The appearance of blisters is preceded by pain in the affected regions.

In the treatment, a number of methods are employed. These consist chiefly of keeping the rash covered with antiseptic dusting powders, or coating the blisters with paraffin in the same way it is used on burns.

Injections of vitamin B-1 have been utilized. Such drugs as the salicylates may be used to relieve the pain. Injections of pituitary extract have also been employed. Aureomycin has recently been found helpful in some cases. Of course, the condition should be treated under the care of a physician.

Frequently, there is a neuralgis pain for a long time following an attack of shingles in the area which was affected by the disorder. In such cases, treatment with pituitary extract might be of some help.

Just how long an attack of shingles will last cannot be definitely stated. In some instances, the attacks clear up within several weeks.
